BACKGROUND

Gregory J. Macksood has over 12 years of experience advising clients on a broad range of issues in Texas and beyond. Greg has served as a trusted advisor to numerous Fortune 500 corporations in developing political, legislative, media and grassroots engagement strategies throughout the country.

Hailing from Cincinnati, Ohio he attended Miami University in Oxford, Ohio where he received his B.A in Political Science. After graduation, he split time between Columbus, Ohio and Washington, D.C. working for a national public affairs/ government relations firm where his work focused on healthcare, tax policy, and natural resources. He relocated to Texas in 2005.

For the past 8 years, prior to joining Stalwart Strategies, Inc., Greg directed the government relations efforts in Texas for one of the nation's largest energy companies. During this time, he served on numerous boards and in leadership positions at several trade associations, learning how to navigate different political climates across Texas and effectively advocate for the energy sector.

Greg also has extensive experience representing interests before Texas regulatory agencies on issues including water, transportation, eminent domain, air, land use and minerals. His deep knowledge of agency procedures makes him an effective advocate for his clients.

Greg's political experience includes managing a statewide ballot initiative, creating issue advocacy coalitions and implementing media communications strategies.
