BACKGROUND

Drew DeBerry has nearly 20 years of experience at the highest levels of public policy development and implementation. He has dedicated his years of service to developing a wealth of knowledge and relationships that complement the growing range of clients at Stalwart Strategies.

DeBerry served on Governor Greg Abbott's senior staff for the first three years of his term as governor, most recently serving as Director of Budget and Policy, and as Policy Director prior to that. In those roles, DeBerry worked closely with executive agency commissioners, directors, and staff, as well as legislative offices, on all aspects of the state budget and programs throughout state government.

Prior to working for Governor Abbott, DeBerry was the Deputy Commissioner of the Texas Department of Agriculture under then-Commissioner Todd Staples. This position followed several years in Washington, D.C., serving under President George W. Bush as the White House Liaison and Deputy Chief of Staff at the U.S.D.A. He began his career working in the legislative arena as a staff member in the Texas State Senate.

Throughout his extensive public service career, DeBerry has also worked on state and national political campaigns to develop grassroots coalitions and help direct overall campaign strategy.

A graduate of Texas Tech University, Drew is the father of three outstanding and talented children and has served on the boards of directors of numerous charitable organizations raising funds for youth development and education.
