BACKGROUND

Gregory J. Macksood has over 13 years of experience advising clients on a broad range of issues in Texas and beyond. He has served as a trusted advisor to a wide range of clients including Fortune 100 corporations, state trade associations and seed capital pre-revenue startups in developing political, legislative, media and grassroots engagement strategies throughout the country.

Greg attended Miami University in Oxford, Ohio where he received his B.A. in Political Science. After graduation, he split time between Columbus, Ohio and Washington D.C. working for a national public affairs/government relations firm where he focused on healthcare, tax policy, and natural resources.

Prior to joining Stalwart Strategies, Inc., Greg directed the government relations efforts in Texas for one of the nation's largest energy companies. During this time, he served on numerous boards and in leadership positions at several trade associations, learning how to navigate different political climates across Texas and effectively advocate for the energy sector.

In addition to his deep legislative relationships across both sides of the aisle, Greg also has extensive experience representing interests before Texas regulatory agencies on issues including water, transportation, eminent domain, air, land use and minerals. His intimate knowledge of agency procedures makes him an effective advocate for his clients.

Greg's political experience includes managing a statewide ballot initiative, creating issue advocacy coalitions and implementing media communications strategies.
